

Learning how to do tasks.

To meet Support Group criteria for this activity, it must be shown that you cannot learn how to complete a simple task, such as setting an alarm clock, due to cognitive impairment or mental disorder.

At the assessment you showed adequate cognition. You reported that you will have mainly microwave meals. You will use a mobile phone and computer and will use it for games and to go online

Having considered all available evidence, I place greater weight on the evidence of the Health Care Professional

This indicates that you do not satisfy Support Group criteria in this activity.

Awareness of everyday hazards.

To meet Support Group criteria for this activity, it must be shown that you have a reduced awareness of everyday hazards, due to cognitive impairment or a mental disorder that leads to significant risk to yourself or others, damage to property or possessions such that you require supervision for the majority of the time to maintain safety.

You reported at the assessment that you will avoid public transport if you can, due to paranoia as you believe people can talk about you. You prefer to walk. You will walk to the co-op on your own and go to the GP surgery on your own. You will attend appointments as needed. There was no evidence of lack of awareness of danger during the assessment of your mental state and you did not describe any accidents or near-misses attributed to serious lack of awareness. Also you did not describe any need for supervision.

Having considered all available evidence, I place greater weight on the evidence of the Health Care Professional

This indicates that you do not satisfy Support Group criteria in this activity

Starting and finishing tasks.

To meet Support Group criteria for this activity, it must be shown that you cannot, due to impaired mental function, reliably initiate or complete at least 2 sequential personal actions.

You reported at the assessment that you will get washed and dressed occasionally. This will be on average twice a week. You don't feel motivated to do it more regularly and believe you don't have to since you don't leave the house often. You reported that your place is liveable, but not very tidy. You will manage the housework. You will use a mobile phone and computer. You will use it for games and to go online. The Health Care Professional noted that you looked well kempt and casually dressed. The Health Care Professional's findings did not reveal any serious lack of motivation or understanding. You had normal facial expression and behaviour and participated without the need for prompting.

Having considered all available evidence, I place greater weight on the evidence of the Health Care Professional

This indicates that you do not satisfy Support Group criteria in this activity