

Caregiving Topics (<https://www.agingcare.com/topics>)

Anosognosia and Dementia

Family caregivers are often frustrated by the confusing and seemingly "stubborn" behaviors of a loved one with dementia. For so frustration stems from the difficulties in dealing with a loved one who doesn't even realize they have Alzheimer's or dementia. The challenging phenomenon is called anosognosia.

What is Anosognosia?

According to the National Alliance on Mental Illness \(https://www.nami.org/About-Mental-Illness/Common-with-Mental-Illness/Anosognosia\), anosognosia is when a person is unaware of their own condition or unable to perceive their condition accurately despite evidence to the contrary. When it comes to dementia, one might compare the experience to dealing with someone who is to remember that they can't remember.

Dementia Denial

Anosognosia is not the denial of dementia, it is a true lack of awareness of the condition. There is a difference between denying the reality of a diagnosis and being unaware of the decline in cognitive skills. Think of denial as more of a conscious choice, whereas anosognosia is the lack of insight or ability to process the information that a person's cognition, memory and behaviors have changed.

Are Any Dementia Patients Aware of Their Diagnosis?

Although family members are often the first to notice changes in memory or behavior, some seniors do recognize the initial decline and spur them to get diagnosis and treatment. As declines in thinking and reasoning progress, a dementia patient's awareness and acceptance of their diagnosis can differ- sometimes on a daily, weekly or even hourly basis. A study performed by Spaletta et al. \(https://www.ceadlongisland.org/sites/default/files/AnosognosiaAlzheimers2014Starkstein.pdf\) regarding a patient's adaptation to their dementia diagnosis identifies the true dangers of anosognosia. Not only are seniors with anosognosia unaware of their deficits, they also cannot recognize their limitations in activities of daily living. When patterns of behavior, household routines and social interactions are not adapted to a new, more limited level of functioning there are often negative consequences. Elders with anosognosia push themselves to continue independently performing activities like driving, managing finances, cooking, or living alone without recognition that their impaired abilities may now present a danger to self or others.

Should You Remind Someone They Have Dementia?

The heartache of caring for someone with dementia is often accompanied by the stress of trying to convince them of the how's and why's of things that have changed. The repetitive questions about why Dad can no longer drive or why Mom can't return to her long-time home can be even more challenging when attempting to reason with a person who is completely unaware of their deficits. Seniors with dementia often lack the ability to reason; seniors with anosognosia can't recognize that they're being unreasonable because they don't understand that anything is wrong. No amount of convincing or telling is going to break through this lack of self-awareness.

Anosognosia May Lead to Treatment Refusal

Unfortunately, one of the more frustrating behaviors that accompanies anosognosia is the refusal of help. Those who lack self-awareness of their changes in cognition also lack awareness that there is a need for diagnosis, treatment or medication. More so, those who lack awareness in their changes in functioning often refuse the help they need to continue to function safely. A senior with dementia is sometimes the only person unable to recognize their deficits. Once family members and physicians agree that a loved one no longer has the capacity to make decisions on their behalf, families can turn to power of attorney \(https://www.agingcare.com/topics/55/power-of-attorney-poa\) or guardianship in order to put the help a loved one needs in place to maintain their health and safety.

Anosognosia Articles

(/topics/295/anosognosia/articles)

Anosognosia: When Dementia Patients Can't Recognize Their Impairment

(/articles/anosognosia-dementia-patients-cant-recognize-impairment-210090.htm)

Anosognosia is a common symptom of dementia that prevents a senior from acknowledging their diagnosis and cognitive impair

21 Comments

With Alzheimer's, Denial Isn't Always What it Seems

(/articles/with-alzheimers-denial-isnt-always-what-it-seems-161439.htm)

It's a common caregiver lament that a loved one with dementia is "in denial" about their disease. But it may not always be denial preventing a person with Alzheimer's from recognizing their impairment.

7 Comments

Should You Be Tested for Dementia?

(/articles/should-you-be-tested-for-dementia-187349.htm)

Not all cognitive decline indicates dementia or Alzheimer's. Some cognitive changes are due to conditions or diseases that are treatable or even reversible. It's important to get tested and find out a diagnosis—whether you want to or not.

6 Comments

Is Using Validation for Dementia Calming or Condescending?

(/articles/validation-method-for-dementia-calming-or-condescending-166707.htm)

Seniors with dementia often live in an altered reality that can sometimes be upsetting. Validating their perceptions and feelings is the kindest, most respectful way to handle confusion, hallucinations and delusions.

125 Comments

More Anosognosia Articles >

Anosognosia Questions

(/topics/295/anosognosia/questions)

Husband with NPH and shunt.

(/questions/husband-with-nph-and-shunt-496540.htm) 6 Answers

Firefly71

Answered Sep 25, 2025

(/members/firefly71)

How successful are section 81 guardianship for people with vascular dementia?

(/questions/how-successful-are-section-81-guardianship-for-people-with-vascular-dementia-496169.htm) 6 Answers

TenderStrength5

Answered Aug 30, 2025

(/members/tenderstrength5)

Mom with dementia in AL keeps insisting she can go out alone.

(/questions/mom-with-dementia-in-al-keeps-insisting-she-can-go-out-alone-495914.htm) 5 Answers

AlvaDeer

Answered Aug 26, 2025

(/members/alvadeer)

Mom "snowed" the neurologist! What now?

(/questions/mom-snowed-the-neurologist-what-now-495971.htm) 23 Answers

MaryNTN

Answered Aug 23, 2025

(/members/maryntn)

More Anosognosia Questions >

Ask a Question About Anosognosia

Type your question

Post Question

Anosognosia Discussions

(/topics/295/anosognosia/discussions)

My mother is being unkind to other residents. Any advice?

(/discussions/my-mother-is-being-unkind-to-other-residents-any-advice-478957.htm) 5 Comments

Isthisreallyreal

Commented Jan 2023

(/members/isthisreallyreal)

What do you do when your love one doesn't think nothing is wrong with them and you can't even say anything about it to them?

(/discussions/what-do-you-do-when-your-love-one-doesnt-think-nothing-is-wrong-with-them-and-you-cant-even-say-469041.htm) 5 Comments

funkygrandma59

Commented Aug 2021

(/members/funkygrandma59)

25 year old looking for support, 58 year old mother with suspected early onset refuses to go to the doctor

(/discussions/25-year-old-just-looking-for-support-58-year-old-mother-with-suspected-early-onset-467770.htm) 3 Comments

Mommyissues600

Commented Jun 2021

(/members/mommyissues600)

Need to vent; at a loss. My (86) grandma has dementia and was dx with it about 4 years ago.

anonymous978422
Commented Nov 2019

(/members/anonymous978422)

More Anosognosia Discussions >

Start a Discussion About Anosognosia

Post Discussion

Anosognosia Related Topics

Alzheimer's & Dementia\(/topics/5/alzheimers-dementia\)

Cognitive Decline\(/topics/6/cognitive-decline\)

Elder Law\(/local/elder-law-attorneys\)

Guardianship\(/topics/51/guardianship\)

Power of Attorney \(POA\)\(/topics/55/power-of-attorney-poa\)

Refusing Care\(/topics/212/refusing-care\)

Signs of Dementia\(/topics/18/signs-of-dementia\)

Subscribe to Our Newsletter

Sign Up

AgingCare ⁽¹⁾

FIND SENIOR CARE

In-Home Care \(/local/in-home-care\)

Independent Living Communities \(/local/independent-living\)

Assisted Living Communities \(/local/assisted-living\)

Memory Care Communities \(/local/memory-care\)

Nursing Homes \(/local/nursing-homes\)

ELDER CARE RESOURCES

Caregiver Forum \(/caregiver-forum\)

Senior Care Guides \(/ebooks\)

Elder Law Attorneys \(/local/elder-law-attorneys\)

Senior Care Products \(/products\)

FOLLOW US

f \(https://www.facebook.com/AgingCare\)

t \(https://twitter.com/AgingCare\)

p \(https://www.pinterest.com/agingcare/\)

Create an Account \(/signup\)

About AgingCare \(/aboutus\)

AgingCare.com connects families who are caring for aging parents, spouses, or other elderly loved ones with the information and support they need to make informed care decisions. The material of this web site is provided for informational purposes only. AgingCare.com does not provide medical advice, diagnosis or treatment; or legal, or financial or any other advice.

© 2025 AgingCare. All Rights Reserved. Terms of Use \(/aboutus/termsofuse\) | Privacy Policy \(/aboutus/policy\) | Do Not Sell My Personal Information \(/aboutus/personal-information\)